

- The suggested method for the threshold was to simply take the maximum point - std (making the assumption that all the changes causing R waves have the same rate)
- $N = 15$  was the best estimate as it detected the most clean R waves
- The detected R waves on the unfiltered data was not accurate due to the base line drift in the ECG signal causing the peaks to be under the threshold